COIN ACCEPTORS, INC. EXECUTIVE PROMOTIONS

ST. LOUIS – January 1, 2008 – Thomas S. Paczkowski has been named Vice President of Marketing for Coin Acceptors, Inc. (Coinco). In his new role, Paczkowski will focus on directing corporate marketing activities and supporting strategic initiatives to further expand Coinco's global presence in the development and manufacturing of automated payment systems.

For the past five years, Paczkowski served as the Director of Marketing where he was responsible for overseeing product planning and branding, sales promotion and new business development. A twenty-year veteran of Coinco, Paczkowski spent 15 years within Coinco's engineering department where he held several management positions, led numerous product development efforts and was awarded ten U.S. patents for product inventions.

Stephen A. O'Neal has been named Vice President of Human Resources for Coin Acceptors, Inc. (Coinco). In just two years as Coinco's Corporate HR Director, O'Neal has successfully planned and executed a number of key initiatives, particularly in organizational development, policy development, employee relations, compensation and benefits. He will continue to broaden his strategic business planning and senior HR management role for Coinco and all of its subsidiaries, including Royal Vendors and Royal Remanufacturing.

O'Neal has over 25 years of previous Human Resources Management experience at the plant, division and corporate levels at Anheuser-Busch, Inc, and has also performed as a Human Resources Consultant for both private and public sector organizations.

Daniel J. Brouillet has been promoted to Director of Quality and Business Process Improvement for Coin Acceptors, Inc. (Coinco). In his new position, Dan will be responsible for developing a company wide quality strategy and driving focused quality and process improvement initiatives that will help strengthen the company's core operations.

Dan left his position as Senior Engineer in the data storage industry 2 years ago to join Coin Acceptors as an Engineering Manager for the factory support group. Dan has a strong background in process development, manufacturing engineering, quality improvement and operations. He has recently been named an ASQ-Certified Manager of Quality/Organizational Excellence and will use the experience gained in this certification process to further strengthen Coinco's quality organization.

Founded in 1958, Coinco is a privately owned company and a global leader in the design and manufacture of payment systems and controls systems. These products are used for automated transaction applications in the vending, amusement, retail, as well as specialty markets.
